PROTECTION

When & How You Need It

We all know life insurance can replace lost income in case of untimely death. But death is not the only unforeseen hardship that can rob you of your ability to earn a living. Serious illness can keep you from working and may be accompanied by significant out-of-pocket expenses. So why buy a life insurance policy that only protects against one event?

Through GPM Life's Alliance Term life insurance with Living Benefits; you have the flexibility to receive part of your policy's death benefit, should you become seriously ill. It's life insurance you can use before you die. In addition to the death benefit, this policy may allow for the acceleration of the death benefit in the event of a Chronic, Critical or Terminal Illness, allowing you to keep moving forward financially. Create an alliance of benefits to protect your life with one policy.

Life Examples

34, Working Mother¹

Jennifer

Jennifer who has two young children, purchased a 20 year term life insurance policy with a death benefit of $300,000 on her husband, John. John was killed in an accident, and Jennifer used the death benefit to pay off the balance of the family mortgage and establish college funds for both her children.

48, Father With Lung Cancer¹

Reginald

Using the Critical Illness Accelerated Living Benefit, Reginald is able to accelerate $125,000 of his $250,000 Death Benefit. He uses some of the money to replace the income he has lost as he could not work while under treatment. Reginald is able to pay for his daughter's college education.

57, Diagnosed With Terminal Illness¹

Karen

Karen accesses funds under the Terminal Illness Accelerated Living Benefit to pay for uncovered medical expenses and take a trip to Hawaii with her husband, while she is still physically able to travel.

79, Widower Diagnosed with Chronic Illness¹

Thomas

Thomas is no longer able to take care of himself while living at home. His family finds a full-service convalescent care facility for him. His Chronic Illness Accelerated Living Benefit was used towards paying the expenses of his care.

¹ This event is a hypothetical situation. Actual benefits will be based on the policy and premium selected, as well as the events triggering the use of the Living Benefit Rider. The illustrated results are not indicative of any particular situation, and your results will likely differ from the results shown above.

LIVING BENEFIT Rider¹

How does it work?

TERMINAL ILLNESS

In order to be eligible for payout of the Terminal Illness Accelerated Living Benefit (TIALB), the insured must suffer from a bodily injury or disease which, as certified by a physician, has reduced life expectancy to less than 24 months.² After the TIALB is paid, the Policy's death benefit and premium will be reduced proportionately based on the amount of death benefit accelerated. Up to 100% of the death benefit, or $1,000,000 can be accelerated, whichever is less. However the benefit payment will be less than the accelerated amount.

CHRONIC ILLNESS

In order to be eligible for payout of the Chronic Illness Accelerated Living Benefit, the insured must have been certified in the last 12 months, by a licensed health practitioner, as not being able to perform at least two of the six activities of daily living without substantial assistance from another person for at least 90 days, or being severely cognitively impaired for 90 consecutive days.

If the insured has been certified chronically ill, he or she can accelerate up to 24% of the death benefit annually, up to lifetime maximum of 100% of the death benefit or $1,000,000, whichever is less.

The amount of payment under this rider, if approved, will be a fraction of the death benefit accelerated, and will depend on such factors as nature and severity of the health condition and the change in remaining life expectancy. The smaller the change in remaining life expectancy, the lower the payment. The larger the change in life expectancy, the higher the payment.

Six Activities of Daily Living:

- | | |
|--------------|-----------------|
| 1. Bathing | 2. Continence |
| 3. Dressing | 4. Eating |
| 5. Toileting | 6. Transferring |

CRITICAL ILLNESS

In order to be eligible for payout of the Critical Illness Accelerated Living Benefit, the insured must be certified as critically ill. A critical illness is any of the following qualifying conditions:

- Heart Attack
- Stroke
- ALS \(Lou Gehrig's Disease\)
- Cancer
- Renal \(kidney\) Failure
- Blindness due to Diabetes
- Paralysis \(loss of the use of two or more limbs\)
- Major Organ Transplant

The policyholder can accelerate up to 100% of the death benefit or $1,000,000, whichever is less.

The amount of payment under this rider, if approved, will be a fraction of the death benefit accelerated, and will depend on such factors as nature and severity of the health condition and the change in remaining life expectancy. The smaller the change in remaining life expectancy, the lower the payment. The larger the change in life expectancy, the higher the payment.

¹ The Rider has an administration fee applied at the time of benefit payment

² State variations exist

Common Questions¹

Can I accelerate the death benefit more than once?

Yes² - When you take less than the full election at the time of your initial claim, you can elect to receive additional accelerated benefit amounts at a later date as long as the total of the benefits does not exceed the maximum allowable amount for the rider.

If I take less than the full election on my initial claim, will the remainder still be available as a life insurance benefit in the event of my death?

Yes² - For example, if you have a $200,000 policy in force and you elect to accelerate 60% of the death benefit due to a terminal, critical or chronic illness, you still have 40% (or $80,000) of your death benefit remaining.

If my Accelerated Benefit claim is approved, will I receive a payment equal to the amount I accelerated?

No - The amount of payment under this rider, if approved, will be less than the death benefit amount accelerated, and will depend on such factors as the nature and severity of the health condition and the change in your remaining life expectancy. If the change in life expectancy is small, the payment will be lower. Conversely, if your life expectancy is severely impacted, the payment will be a higher percentage of the amount accelerated.
